

When To Call Doctor

Immediately if:

- Abdomen feels swollen and hard. Baby vomits persistently and/or forcefully.
- The baby's skin is blue all the time; even when the baby is warm and calm.
- Crying persistently for a long time (longer than 60 to 90 minutes without any obvious cause) sounds peculiar, like shrieks.
- Rectal temperature is more than 100.4.
- The baby looks very floppy, seems very lethargic and refuses to take feeding.
- When whole body seems to be shaking and does not stop even when you try to hold it (i.e. arm/leg)
- Fast breathing, difficulty breathing, flaring of nostrils.
- Red skin around the umbilicus.

During office hours if:

- Routinely coughs or chokes during feeding.
- Doesn't startle at loud sounds.
- Skin develops a yellowish color.
- White patches in the mouth.
- When you feel that baby is not gaining enough weight.
- Unusual rash otherwise baby looks normal.

North Brunswick Office (Ruth Road): 732-418-1700

Dayton Office (Ridge Road): 732-418-1700

New Brunswick Office (How Lane): 732-247-1510

Edison Office (Progress St): 908-561-5700

AFTERHOURS NUMBER: 732-339-7775